CARE BEARS

Thin Ice!

IT HARDLY EVER SNOWS IN CARE-A-LOT, BUT THAT DOESN'T STOP THE CARE BEARS HAVING SOME WINTER FUN...

I JUST KNEW THIS WOULD HAPPEN TO ME!

NOW! LOOK AT CHAMP. I'D LIKE TO TRY THAT!

ER, I DON'T THINK THAT WOULD BE WISE. WHY DON'T WE BUILD A CLOUD SNOWMAN?

CARE BEARS AWAY!

AND COUSIN!

MEANWHILE, DOWN BELOW...

I HAVE TO GO SHOPPING, ROBERT. I WANT YOU TO STAY IN AND LOOK AFTER JIMMY.

DO I HAVE TO? I WANT TO PLAY IN THE SNOW. HE'LL BE ALL RIGHT ON HIS OWN!

A FEW MINUTES LATER...

I CAN'T GO SLEDGING WITH YOU, I'VE GOT TO LOOK AFTER THIS TWEER!

YOU CAN HAVE A FEW RIDES AND BE BACK BEFORE YOUR MUM COMES HOME! SHE'LL NEVER KNOW IF HE DOESN'T TELL!

BUT ROBERT DOESN'T LISTEN, AND SO...

WOW, THIS IS GREAT!

FASTER!

JUST YOU STAY OUT OF TROUBLE, OR ELSE!

DON'T GO, ROBERT, MUM DOESN'T LIKE YOU PLAYING WITH THEM!

"INSTRUMENTS"? NO WONDER THE FORECASTS ARE USUALLY WRONG!

A LITTLE LATER, AT THE STARSCOPE...

BRIGHT HEART WAS RIGHT! THE TROUBLE IS ALREADY STARTING. WE'D BEST GET DOWN TO EARTH RIGHT AWAY. WE MIGHT NEED SWIFT HEART RABBIT...

EH? WE'RE SLOWING DOWN!

STOPPING!

WELL DONE, SWIFT HEART!

HEY— WHY ARE YOU SPOILING OUR FUN?

IT'S A CRACKER!

To make a special Christmas Cracker, here's what you'll need:-
(1) cardboard tube (an old toilet roll is ideal!), (2) crepe paper, (3) string or rubber bands, (4) small gifts, (5) scissors, (6) blank paper.

1. Cut a piece of crepe paper at least twice the length of your cardboard tube and roll the tube up in it, leaving a lot of extra paper at each end.

2. Scrunch up one end of the cracker and tie with string, or secure with an elastic band, leaving the other end open.

3. Insert a suitably small gift, or a sweet! Then, in your best handwriting, write a favourite joke on a thin strip of paper and slide this in too.

4. Now you're nearly there! Tie up the other side of the cracker and stick a bit of tinsel or a small picture on the outside. Perhaps you could cut up an old Christmas card, or better still, draw a picture of your own to decorate it with!

THE STOLEN CHRISTMAS PRESENTS!

The Care Bears had arrived in Greenland for a very special reason – Father Christmas needed their help!

"It's terrible!" wailed Santa in his Grotto, after the Care Bears had putt-putted down in their cloud-mobiles from their fluffy cloud-home of Care-a-lot. "All the Christmas presents I made this year have been . . . stolen!"

"Gasp-and-double-gasp!" gasped Friend Bear in surprise. "That's terrible! Who would do such a nasty thing? Their hearts must be iced over and they have forgotten how to - gulp! - care!"

"Don't worry, Santa!" said Tenderheart, taking charge. "We won't rest until the culprit is caught, and we have shown him the error of his ways!"

"That's . . . Yawn! . . . right!" yawned Bedtime, tiredly. "We won't . . . rest . . . until . . . until . . . Zzzzzzzzz!" And he promptly fell asleep.

"Tch! He's useless!" muttered Grumpy, as he lifted Bedtime up and carried him outside to the sleigh Santa was lending them. "That's the trouble with Bedtime – he's always sleeping on the job!"

Now the Care Bears were making their way across the ice, looking for the missing Christmas presents!

Suddenly, Wish cried out, "Duck!" "That's not a duck!" snorted Grumpy, looking at a funny-shaped bird waddling across the ice. "That's a penguin! Gluuffffh!"

And the reason Grumpy had cried "Gluuffffh!" was because a giant snowball had rolled down a hill and knocked him off his feet! Splaaaaaat!

"We're under attack," shouted Cheer, as dozens of snowballs rained down on them. Her tummy symbol sparkled, and she created a giant rainbow-umbrella to shelter under.

"Phew! It's lucky that snowball missed me!" giggled Good Luck, as a large snowball landed on Daydream's head, who was standing next to him.

"It's no daydream!" cried a little eskimo boy, running up to them. "It's all a terrible nightmare – and it's all my fault!"

"Who are you?" asked Grumpy.

"I'm Bloo," said the eskimo, shaking Grumpy's hand.

"I'm not surprised, living here – it's freezing!" muttered Grumpy. "It would be enough to turn me blue, if I wasn't already. But what's your name?"

Good Luck created a giant four-leaf clover and used it as a bat to hit the snowballs away!

Love-a-Lot and Tenderheart fired dozens of warm lovehearts into the air to melt the snowballs before they reached the Bears.

And Wish Bear wished that the snowballs would stop falling on them – and they did!

"I wonder who attacked us?" frowned Surprise Bear, dusting the snow off his fur. "When we find out I expect it will be a big surprise!"

"Or perhaps we're dreaming it all!" said Daydream.

The eskimo laughed. "No, silly! That is my name! B-L-O-O! Bloo!"

"Oh!" said Grumpy, thinking what a daft name that was for an eskimo.

"Well, I'm Grumpy!"

"I thought you looked bad-tempered!" agreed Bloo. "But what's your name?"

"Humph! That is my name!" spluttered Grumpy, crossly. "G-R-U-M-P-Y! Grumpy!"

"Oh," said Bloo, thinking what a daft name that was for a bear. "It's nice to meet you - er - Grumpy! But what are you doing in Greenland?"

Cheer explained about their mission to find the stolen toys.

"Oh, dear!" groaned Bloo. "I knew Snowy was naughty, but I didn't think he'd do this!"

"Who's Snowy?" asked Secret, who always liked to know the secrets to everything.

"Snowy is a snowman!" explained Bloo. "And I built him! I made him really big, too! And because the magic of Christmas is in the air, my snowman came to life! But because he doesn't have a heart, he doesn't now how to care!"

"Wuzzlies! How awful!" cried Love-a-Lot.

Bloo nodded his head, sadly. "Snowy chased me away, and now he attacks anyone who passes by. That's who threw the snowballs at you! And he said he was going to ruin Christmas, so everyone will have cold feelings - just like he has!"

"We can't have that!" said Tenderheart. "Christmas is an especially caring time, when we all show the love for one another that we might keep bottled up for the rest of the year! Come on, Care Bears - we must find Snowy and save Christmas!"

Snowy wasn't hard to find - in fact, Grumpy was grrr-umbling about the cold so much he wasn't watching where he was going, and collided with Snowy's big toe! Splaaaaaat!

"Fuzzies! You really did build a big snowman!" said Funshine, ignoring Grumpy's complaints that he should have known it would happen to him, and instead, looked up and up and up to the top of Snowy's head.

"All the better to splatter you!" chortled Snowy, in a deep, cold-hearted voice. He raised his left foot, and brought it crashing down toward the Care Bears! Whaaaaaam! "Heavens to fuzzies! Look out!" cried Harmony, as they leapt out of the way - just in time!

Before they had time to defend themselves, Snowy was creating snowballs out of cold air, and throwing them at the Care Bears and Bloo! Splaaaaaat! Spluuuuut! Splooooot!

"Quick, join hands - and Care!" shouted Tenderheart, as Snowy almost drowned them in snow!

The Care Bears stood together and shouted "Care Bears Stare!"

All the warm love and caring in their hearts poured out in rainbow-coloured lights, and surrounded Snowy!

"Ooooh! I'm tingling all over!" cried Snowy, as he began to melt!

Soon he was no bigger than the Care Bears themselves!

That's brought you down to size!" said Tenderheart. "Now what have you done with all the Christmas presents?"

"I'm not telling you!" sulked Snowy.

"But you must!" cried Share. "Christmas is a time for giving and sharing!"

"No one will give me anything!" muttered Snowy. "No one even likes me!"

"That's because you're so nasty!" said Grumpy. "You should learn how to care!"

"But I don't know how to!" groaned Snowy - and he began to cry!

The Care Bears felt very sorry for him. "What you need is a heart full of love!" said Love-a-Lot. Her tummy symbol shone, and a glowing heart appeared. She placed it over Snowy's chest, and it melted inside him!

Snowy began to smile - and then began to laugh!

"At last! I have a heart!" he cheered, happily. "Now I know how important it is to care! Thank you, Care Bears! This is the best present I've ever had!"

"But where are the other presents?" asked Cheer, looking at her watch. "It's almost midnight, and Santa has to go on his rounds!"

Snowy led them to an area of ice. "I hid the presents under the ice, so no one could find them," he explained. "But now the hole I made has iced up, and I can't reach them!"

"Fuzzies! This a job for me!" said Funshine. She used her sunshine powers to melt another hole in the ice. Then Tenderheart sat down with a fishing rod that he had brought along in his emergency kit bag, and began fishing for the presents!

"I've got something!" he shouted, after a while, and fished up a stocking full of presents!

Soon, Santa was on his way riding through the sky, in his sleigh, his sack full of presents for good girls and boys.

"And we've got to get back to Care-a-Lot to hang up our Christmas Stockings!" said Cheer, as Bloo and Snowy waved goodbye to them.

"Snowy, never forget, love will melt the coldest heart!"

"I won't!" shouted Snowy, watching the Care Bears fly off in their cloud-mobiles. "Merry Christmas, Care Bears!"

"Merry Christmas!" shouted back the Care Bears. "To you and everyone!"

WORD PUZZLE

Secret Bear has already solved the Picture Puzzle but is keeping the answers close to his chest. Can you help solve the mystery by finding the word which links the two in the grid, simply by looking at the jumbled pictures. For example, the words GREEN and BOAT would be connected by a picture of a HOUSE, making 'greenhouse' and 'houseboat'. Remember, the picture clues are not in order, but the answers are all there for you to unravel.

Grams sat down with Hugs and Tugs and told them a special fairy story. "Once upon a time a beautiful young girl lived with her cold-hearted Auntie Freeze and her two ugly stepsisters, Miss Coldheart and Miss Frostbite. The poor girl was made to dress in rags and sleep in the fireplace on cold cinders. That's why everyone called her..."

CINDERELLA!

"One day the king's son was giving a ball to which everyone was invited.

"Ha! You're not going, Cinders!" screeched Auntie Freeze and she froze Cinderella's feet to the floor to stop her from leaving the house.

Miss Coldheart and Miss Frostbite taunted Cinderella all day. "Cinders is going to miss the ball!" they sang.

When her Auntie and stepsisters had left for the ball Cinderella sat down in the cinders and began to cry. Suddenly there was there was a flash of twinkling light and a graceful old Bear appeared.

"I am your Caring Godmother," said the Bear kindly.

"Why are you here?" asked Cinderella in awe.

"I'm going to get you to the ball, of course! Don't you know anything about fairy tales?!" A rainbow light shone from the godmother's tummy symbol and melted the ice around Cinderella's feet. "Now fetch me a pumpkin, six bicycles, and a wobbly jelly!"

Cinderella did as she was bid. Then her godmother waved her wand and there appeared a golden coach, six dappled-grey horses and a tenderheart-ed coachbear. Cinderella's rags became a gown of cloth of gold and silver, all sewn with diamonds and emeralds. Her old shoes changed into a pair of pretty glass slippers.

So Cinderella went to the ball. Everyone in the palace hall gazed in wonder at the beautiful stranger. Prince Grumpling, who ordinarily wasn't interested in anything, fell immediately in love with Cinderella and spent the night dancing with her alone.

But at the stroke of midnight something terrible happened! Cinderella's lovely gown turned back to rags, her coach into a pumpkin, the horses into bicycles and coachman into jelly.

"Wugglies!" cried her Caring godmother. "My magic wand must be on the blink!"

With a "Caring Godmother Stare!" she swept Cinderella away on a fluffy white cloud. In the rush, one of Cinderella's glass slippers fell off.

The next day, Prince Grumpling sent out trumpeteers to proclaim that he would marry the girl whose foot fitted the glass slipper.

"We must find her," he cried, "otherwise I shall be grouchy to the end of my days!"

Soon the prince arrived at Auntie Freeze's house with his two pagebears, Hugs and Tugs.

("Tee hee! That's us!" giggled Tugs.)

Hugs carried the glass slipper on a velvet cushion. Miss Frostbite tried on the slipper first. She kicked and screamed and jumped and squealed but her foot was much too big to fit the slipper.

"It's mine!" screeched Miss Coldheart, snatching up the slipper. But the slipper was too big and fell off her foot.

Poor Cinderella had been locked away in a cupboard of ice so Prince Grumpling couldn't meet her. He was about to leave when Cinderella's Caring Godmother appeared. "Snugglies! Don't go!" she shouted, "There's someone else!"

Miss Coldheart and Miss Frostbite tried to stop her from opening the cupboard. In their haste they tripped over and went flying through the air.

Krrraaassssh! They smashed into the cupboard door. The door fell off its hinges, flattening them. Whumph!

Cinderella looked out nervously.

"You must try on the slipper!" ordered pagebear Tugs.

The slipper fitted Cinderella perfectly.

"You are my beautiful lady!" cried Prince Grumpling.

"With you at my side, I shall never again be a grumpy Bear!"

So it was that Cinderella married the prince and they both lived happily ever after in Care-a-Lot Castle," finished Grams.

But Hugs and Tugs didn't hear her.

They were both fast asleep!

TREE OF KNOWLEDGE

Here's Daydream Bear using her imagination once again! This time she's dreaming of a Christmas tree, but not the usual kind, because hanging from these branches are 26 things beginning with each letter of the alphabet. For instance, for the letter 'A', Daydream has imagined Apple. Get the idea? Can you see for yourself what her thoughts are for the letters B to Z?

Answers: Book, Cat, Drum, Elephant, Fan, Glove, Hat, Iron, Jack-in-the-box, Kite, Ladybird, Mouse, Necklace, Ostrich, Pear, Quill, Ring, Star, Tie, Umbrella, Violin, Watering Can, Xylophone, Yo-yo, Zebra.

The logo for Care Bears features the words "CARE BEARS" in a large, red, bubbly font. The letter "C" is stylized to include a small bear's head. Above the letters are several yellow stars, one of which has a smiling face. Below the main title, the tagline "Just The Way You Are!" is written in a smaller, black, sans-serif font.

WELCOME TO CARE-A-LOT, HOME OF THE CARE BEARS. IT LOOKS PERFECT, DOESN'T IT? BUT EVEN OUR FURRY FRIENDS SOMETIMES WISH THINGS WERE DIFFERENT...

COCKADODDLE-

* WHICH MEANS: "WISH I DIDN'T HAVE TO GET UP FIRST EVERY MORNING TO WAKE YOU BEARS, ESPECIALLY WHEN YOU DIDN'T INVITE ME TO PARTY!"

CARE BEARS

Love-a-Lot Bear has a motto that goes something like this: "Love will find a way to bring two hearts together – and if it doesn't, then I will!" She believes that love makes the world go round!

Tenderheart Bear, the unofficial leader of the Care Bears is just so bursting full of fuzzy feelings, all the other Bears follow his example!

Harmony Bear understands the power and magic of music. She says, "Music is the laughter of the Heart!" And she'll sing you a beautiful song to prove it!

Grumpy Bear hides his generous, caring heart beneath a gruff mood that he sometimes seems to have all the time, but it's just to show us that it's all right to be grumpy every once in a while! Sometimes he shows himself to be something of a hero, really!

Birthday Bear is a real party-goer! There's nothing he likes more than a good birthday party!

Surprise Bear pops up in the most unexpected places! He's a bit cheeky, but not really naughty – it's just that, if an idea seems like fun, then he'll go ahead and do it, which sometimes gets him into trouble!

Secret Bear will keep your secrets locked away in his heart forever – he knows what nobody knows!

Grams Bear is everyone's favourite granny Bear. Hers is the oldest, and therefore the most powerful of the Care Bears' white magic, which is why everybody feels so good when she's around!

Hugs and Tugs are the cutest, furriest little cubs you've ever seen. They're always getting into mischief, though, of course, they mean well and one day hope to grow up into fully-fledged Care Bears!

(A letter from Sunshine Bear)

Hello, everyone! Heavens to fuzzies! We've had some excitement, I can tell you! What with the Hall of Hearts collapsing, and everyone on earth forgetting to care, it's been one thing after another, as Grumpy might mutter!

Let me be the first to tell you about it (I do love a good story!) . . .

It all started one lovely sunny day, high up in the fluffy white clouds of Care-a-Lot.

The birds were happily tweeting away, swooping over my head. The fish were playing leap-frog with a toad in the River of Hearts. And Grumpy was grumbling, as usual.

"Do you have to do that?" he moaned, as I used my magic sunshine powers to make the flowers grow in his garden.

"Fuzzies! Of course I do!" I chuckled. "Flowers make the world happy and colourful!"

"They also bring on my – A-A-A-Chooooooooo! – hay fever!" sneezed Grumpy. He sneezed so hard that he fell backwards and did a roly-poly on the ground! "Why can't we have – sniff! – plastic flowers instead?"

THE END OF THE CARE BEARS?!!

"Real flowers are much nicer!" I explained. "They smell lovely, and their bright colours attract the pretty butterflies and bees!"

"Humph!" huffed Grumpy, and then he sneezed again. "AAAAAAA-Chooooooooo!"

It was the loudest sneeze I'd ever heard – and what followed was even worse! The clouds shook, the sun went in, and Grumpy and I watched in horror as our beautiful and majestic Hall of Hearts crumbled into dust!

"Heavens to Fuzzies!" gasped Grumpy in surprise. "Did my sneeze do all that?"

And if it was a shock to us, you can imagine how dreadful it must have been for our fuzzy friends who were inside the Hall of Hearts!

Snooring happily away in his room, Bedtime suddenly woke to find that his bed had disappeared! Well, he didn't notice straight away because he was still asleep, but you know what I mean!

He tumbled through the air and dropped two storeys to the ground. Luckily, Good Luck had just created a soft four-leaf clover mattress for himself to land on, and Bedtime landed on it, too!

"Hey!" cried Tenderheart, who was playing Hide-'n'-Seek with Champ when the room they were in melted away. "Everything's vanished! There's nowhere to hide!"

Grams was in the kitchen, making a cake mixture with Hugs and Tugs. (Actually, Hugs and Tugs were too busy having a cake-mixture-throwing fight to be much help to Grams!) They were quite surprised when the kitchen disappeared around them!

Outside, Love-a-Lot was busy picking hearts from the heart-tree. "Heavens to Fuzzies!" she gasped. "The Hall of Hearts has fallen down!"

"Humph! Well it's not my fault!" said Grumpy. He had already realised that it couldn't have been his little sneeze that had caused all this damage!

Anyway, after we had picked ourselves up and dusted each other down, we were all so stunned and upset that we didn't know what to say – until Friend yelled, "Wuzzlies! The clouds are shrinking!"

And they were, too! As we watched in alarm, they grew smaller and smaller, until we were all standing on tip-toes to save ourselves from falling off! "This is terrible!" wailed Birthday, as the Caring Meter exploded, the star-scope shattered, and the River of Hearts dried up. "And there's only one possible explanation . . . every single person on earth must have stopped caring!"

"And if we don't do something quickly," gasped Harmony. "It will mean the – gulp – end of the Care Bears!"

Leaping into our cloud-mobiles we headed for earth. When we landed, you'll never guess what we found!

Everyone had been . . . frozen! "No wonder no one cares!" said Share. "Their caring hearts are as cold as the ice that surrounds them. And only one meanie would do such a cold-hearted thing! That baddie of all baddies . . ."

" . . . Professor Coldheart!" we all chorused, together.

Before you could say "Heavens to Fuzzies!" we were charging through the gates of the Land Without Feelings, and hammering on the door of Coldheart Castle.

The door creaked open and we plunged into the icy cold shadowy depths.

"It's c-c-creepy . . . and c-c-cold! Brrrrr!" shivered Daydream. "It's like a bad dream!"

"It's no dream – but it will be your worst nightmare!" cackled a cackly voice we knew only too well.

We turned to face Professor Coldheart and the cause of all our troubles – his dastardly Freeze Machine! The machine that had frozen the whole world!

"Ha, ha!" he cackled, aiming the Freeze Machine on us. "You've come to join the party! With no one around to care, Care-a-Lot is doomed, and you rotten fuzzy-fools will be finished! Then I can turn everyone into my faithful slaves, the Green Meanies! Ha, ha, ha!" (Coldheart likes cackling!)

"Oooh! Let me freeze them, Professor!" warbled Frostbite, Coldheart's bumbling assistant. He hopped up and down, excitedly. "Can I? Huh? Huh? Can I?"

"No, you can't!" snorted Coldheart, pushing Frostbite aside. "This pleasure will be all mine!" He pressed the button, and an icy blue ray shot out of the Freeze Machine. Zaaaaaaap!

"Uh-oh! Take heart, Care Bears and not just one – lots of them!" cried Tenderheart, creating a wall of hearts around us. But it was no good! The ray was so strong, it smashed the wall to pieces, and we all went sprawling across the floor! Smaaaaaasssh!

Harmony began to sing in a high-pitched voice, hoping to shatter the machine like opera singers can shatter wine glasses! "La-la-la-leeeeeeeee!" she sang, very loudly.

The Freeze Machine began to shiver and shake! Then Coldheart aimed the machine at the floor Harmony was standing on, and she went sliding across the room!

Birthday created a nice, soft cream cake for her to crash into – well, it was better than a hard wall!

"Humph! This is great!" muttered Grumpy, getting grouzier by the minute as Coldheart turned the machine on the rest of us. "We're about to be turned into furry ice-lollies, and I haven't even had my tea yet!"

He was so miserable a big raincloud floated off his tummy symbol and rained down on us all! Sploooooossh!

"Whoops!" cried Frostbite, slipping in the puddle of water. He slid into the Freeze Machine, and turned it around! Whummmmp!

Kaa-zap! The ice-ray fired from the machine and struck Frostbite and Professor Coldheart!

"Eeeek! You nincompoop!" yelled Coldheart, who was frozen solid. "I can't move!"

"But we can!" I chuckled, using my sunshine powers to melt the machine. Then I joined hands with my friends and we gave our mighty battle-cry: "Care Bears Stare!"

All our warm love and magic floated around the world, un-freezing everyone. The world was saved!

Shortly afterwards we returned to Care-a-Lot and did the same there! And I'm glad to report that our fuzzy home was soon back to normal! Lots of fuzzy love,

Funshine
